

Villa Angela 4★

SMALL BOUTIQUE HOTEL | STUNNING VIEWS OF ETNA

This hotel's sensitive design reveals the love of Sicily held by the property's celebrity owner. Sicily has been enchanting artists, writers and musicians for centuries, among them is Jim Kerr, the lead singer of Simple Minds, who fell in love with the island when he visited on tour. He then went on to create Hotel Villa Angela.

It's set on the hillside above Taormina, with the heart of town a 15-minute walk down a pathway. The hotel has been designed to make the most of the vistas, which stretch out across the Ionic Riviera to Mount Etna. There's a large pool on a terrace jutting out over the hillside, and the restaurant terrace comes with panoramic views too.

The building itself is modern, though it pays great respect to local craftsmanship – for example, the hotel is made from Taormina stone. This continues inside, with furniture made from chestnut, a tree common to Sicily, and ceramics made in Caltagirone, a Sicilian town famous for its pottery.

With just 27 bedrooms, this hotel feels really intimate. The bedrooms are furnished with wrought-iron beds and abstract antiques, along with modern touches such as Wi-Fi and DVD players.
